Dear Larry:

As a professional aircraft broker and Twin Cessna Specialist, I see and fly a wide variety of twin Cessna models, including the various Cessna 310 models.

The SAirCorp products for the Cessna 310 that I have recently acquired will definitely be of benefit for Jerry Temple Aviation. I cannot imagine any customer who, after seeing your products function in a 310, or experiencing their convenience and comfort on a flight, would not want to have them in the aircraft they own or are purchasing.

Your Organizer Console will allow pilots to have maps and approach charts plus aircraft and equipment manuals organized and convenient to them. I've seen many Glove Compartments and Seat Pouches loaded with the flight publications and reference materials needed for flight. The many other items that pilots carry in their airplanes are all easily carried in the large storage areas of the Organizer Console.

Many 310 Owners have designed "home-made" coffee and soft drink holders and systems for securing portable oxygen tanks. The SAir Oxygen Tank Mount and Dual Cupholder are excellent. They look great and are positioned in an ideal location.

Many a 310 pilot has struggled with a lapboard or a kneeboard for writing and securing approach plates. Often a pilot's size, seat and yoke position just make a lapboard or kneeboard difficult to use. The SAir Clipboard is positioned where writing, calculations and reading instrument approach plates is made easy due to the "out in the open" location of the SAir Clipboard.

I'll certainly recommend the SAir products for the Cessna 310 to aircraft owners. Both pilot comfort and cockpit organization are improved with the use of the SAir Organizer Console and accessories, thereby adding to flight safety.

Wishing you continued success with your product line,
